"The Fathers tell us, the souls of the dead remember everything that happened here—thoughts, words, desires—and nothing can be forgotten. >>>

>>> If a man helped someone or was helped by someone else, this is remembered as is the person concerned, or if he injured someone, or was injured by someone, all this is remembered. >>>

>>> In fact the soul loses nothing that it did in this world but remembers everything at its exit from the body. Whatever is in a man here is going to leave the earth with him, and is going to be with him there."

SAINT DOROTHEUS
OF GAZA
(+7th c)
